

David F. Henderson

A native Texan and lifelong student of East Texas nature, with a B.S. in Wildlife Science from Texas A&M, David is the current President and charter Vice-president of the Butterfly Enthusiasts of Southeast Texas (BEST), as well as Field Trip Coordinator for the Piney Woods Wildlife Society, and a charter member of the Heartwood Chapter of Texas Master Naturalists. David has been a butterfly enthusiast since the turn of the century, when a Zebra Swallowtail sauntered across the trail at Watson Pinelands Preserve. Since then, David, with his wife Ednelza, spends much of his free time traveling across the state, the continent, and the world in search of butterflies to photograph. When at home, David is busy running BEST – a local chapter of the North American Butterfly Association - as well as participating in and coordinating several butterfly counts throughout the region. Somehow, he finds the time to work as a science teacher at Klein Collins High School in Spring.
